Back ended subsidy

Subsidies given by the Govt of India for bank loans are usually back ended. It means subsidy amount will be adjusted only on completion of the project. However, interest on subsidy component is not charged to the Bank loan amount. An example of back ended subsidy is Prime Minister's Rojgar Yojna (PMRY).

Back end subsidy implies that the beneficiary has to avail term loan from the Nationalized Banks / Financial Institution (FI) such as NABARD, IDBI, SIDBI, ICICI, State Financial Corporations, State Industrial Development Corporations, NBFCs, NEDFI, National SCST/minorities/ Backward- Classes Financial and Development Corporation, other designated loaning institutions of the State / UTs, Commercial/ Cooperative Banks, etc. Concerned banks/ State FIs may adhere to their own appraisal norms while sanctioning projects under the scheme. The appraisal note provided by FIs for sanction/ Claim of subsidy should invariably be the same which formed the basis for sanction of term loan. The project should be implemented within a period of two years from the date of sanction of loan. The payment of back-ended subsidy will be made after the project has been successfully completed according to the terms and conditions of the loan/or as per the approved feasibility cum project report, as the case may be.

The payment of back ended subsidy will be made to the beneficiary after project has been successfully completed in accordance with the terms and conditions of the loan or as per the approved feasibility-cum-project report, as the case may be.
