Expression of Interest (EOI) for participating in the supply of Goat under Goatery Scheme SCA to TSP of ITDA, Malkangiri

Goat is a multi-functional animal and plays a significant role in the economy and nutrition of landless, small and marginal farmers in the country. Goat rearing is an enterprise which has been practiced by a large section of population in rural areas. Goats can efficiently survive on available shrubs and trees in adverse harsh environment in low fertility lands where no other crop can be grown. In pastoral and agricultural subsistence societies in India, goats are kept as a source of additional income and as an insurance against disaster. Goats are also used in ceremonial feasting and for the payment of social dues. In addition to this, goat has religious and ritualistic importance in many societies.

1. Objectives

1. With the objective of employment generation, entrepreneurship development, increase in per animal productivity and thus targeting increased production of meat, goat milk augmenting local needs in the District and providing rich source of protein to the child for a healthy tomorrow, and at the same time provide sustainable livelihood to ST families, the ITDA, Malkangiri intends to invest on Goat Farming in potential location i.e. in 7 Blocks of Malkangiri District. The concept of the Scheme is to develop the entrepreneurs in goatery feed and fodder development in order to create the forward and backward linkage for the produce available at the unorganized sector and to link with the organized sector.
2. The scheme has been formulated keeping in mind certain assumptions.
 - a) That in past years the ITDA has supported farmers in the form of subsidy whether in Dairy, Goatery & Poultry farming, but the overall impact has not yielded much result.
 - b) That even though farmers are now aware of the potential of Goatery, yet the courage to venture into this activity is not there due to lack of financial resources etc.
 - c) The initial investment needed for Goat farming is low. Due to small body size and docile nature, housing requirements and management problems with goats are less. Goats are prolific breeders and achieve sexual maturity at the age of 10-12 months gestation period in goats is short and at the age of 16-17 months it starts giving milk. Twinning is very common and triplets and quadruplets are rare. In drought prone areas risk of goat farming is very much less as compared to other livestock species. Unlike large animals in commercial farm conditions both male and female goats have equal value. Goats are ideal for mixed species grazing. The animal can thrive well on wide variety of thorny bushes, weeds, crop residues, agricultural by-products unsuitable for human consumption. Under proper management, goats can improve and maintain grazing land and reduce bush encroachment (biological control) without causing harm to the environment. Slaughter and dressing operation and meat disposal can be carried without much environmental problems. The goat meat is more lean (low cholesterol) and relatively good for people who prefer low energy diet especially in summer and sometimes goat meat (chevon) is preferred over mutton because of its "chewability". Goat milk is easy to digest than cow milk because of small fat globules and is naturally homogenised. Goat milk is said to play a role in improving appetite and digestive efficiency. Goat milk is non allergic as compared to cow milk and it has anti-fungal and anti bacterial properties and can be used for treating urogenital diseases of fungal origin. Goats are 2.5 times more economical than sheep on free range grazing under semi arid conditions. Goat creates employment to the rural poor besides effectively utilising unpaid family labour. There is ample scope for establishing cottage industries based on goat meat and milk products and value addition to skin and fibre. Goat is termed as walking refrigerator for the storage of milk and can be milked number of times in a day.

- d) That, there is an immediate and urgent imperative now to motivate, encourage and attract the tribal people to take up Goatery farming in a more sustainable way.
- e) Virtually every aspect of goat performance is controlled by genetics – milk, fat, protein, yield, reproduction, feed efficiency, length of life in the herd, calving ability and the ability to resist diseases– are all linked to unique genetic make –up. Thus the aim of the programme would be to have organized animal breeding services to cover this breedable population of Does & bucks by extending and institutionalizing door step Artificial insemination (AI) services so that the livestock can have faster genetic gain, on an economically sustainable basis.

3. The scheme has been formulated keeping the following objectives in mind.
 - a) To develop Goatery Farming as an economic activity in the District of Malkangiri
 - b) To encourage and increase stakeholder investment participation in the whole value chain and production process of Goatery.
 - c) To encourage and facilitate sustainable models of production.
 - d) To encourage and mobilize farmers' stakes as partners in the same process such that a sense of ownership is instilled amongst the farming community leading to better ownership responsibility and accelerating the adoption of technology, financial discipline and quality control culminating in improved and sustainable economic returns.
 - e) To develop and strengthen the risk taking ability of the farming community through a combination of technology, assured markets, credit linkages and institutional support.
 - f) To enable the farming community to capture opportunities generated by the new climate of market oriented production and value chain approach.
 - g) Given the importance of genetics in the animals in the herd, it is important to manage genetic change and improvement. To provide Veterinary services and extension services for genetic improvement of the cattle for promotion of healthy and more productive animal.

With the intention of meeting the above aim and objectives, the ITDA, Malkangiri intends to invite proposals from interested, reputed and qualified organizations / Firms for supply of Goat (Does & Bucks) to Farmers.
